

Now Everyone is Talking About HMDA and the New URLA

The course reviews The Home Mortgage Disclosure Act including the New Rule schedule to begin January of 2018 and the data fields that have been added for reporting purposes.

Thursday, December 7, 2017
LeMont Restaurant, Pittsburgh
9:00 AM Registration
9:30 – 11:30 AM Training Session

Cost: $25.00

Continental breakfast provided.

Valet parking available.

Register online at www.mba-swpa.org

Presentation by

MaryKay Scully

Genworth Mortgage Insurance

Director of Customer Education

This course introduces the new Uniform Residential Loan Application (URLA). The form is commonly referred to as the 1003/65. Explore the new format and review the new information fields that are required.

Everyone in the industry will be impacted by the upcoming changes. The URLA changes are the first in several decades and are substantial. The form has been completely redesigned and according to Fannie Mae & Freddie Mac – provides greater clarity as well as an easier, more consumer-friendly loan application experience.

